Discussion Questions

What is significant about God choosing Jacob over Esau (v. 23)? What is divine election and how does this passage teach it (see also Rom. 9:10-12, 16)? What should be our response to the fact that God graciously chooses whom He will save?

How does this passage introduce the division that will occur between Esau, Jacob, and their descendants? Do you expect hostility in life based on your desire to follow Christ? What should be our response to the reality of rejection by the world?

What was wrong with Esau's actions in his exchange with Jacob in vv. 29-34? In what way is this incident a warning to all, especially those who have been exposed to the Gospel?

How does this passage show the grace of God? Why is God's grace so important to your continued perseverance?
